

Night City Scoops

The Stryker Files Ep. 522

Uploader Stream: Wanda "Stryker" O'Lery

<MEDIA TRANSCRIPTION BEGIN>

> Hey there lovely followers! Today's we're taking a behind-the-scenes look at our awesome "Stryke Team!"

> Lynxx Lixx our fearsome leader, pushes everything until it's done! And the shadowy man behind her? That's her driver!

> But our driver, Dram Steve, is a great guy! We've started calling him

"Boomboom" for fun! Him and Hara Bagh Shordmon are always together and bickering like an old couple!

> Hijack Showtop seems like a cool guy as well, but his friend Lock Keye hasn't shown up yet. Well, I guess better late than never!

> So, my lovely people, here are the facts!

> Nova Tech Warehouse is under attack! Lots of dead employees. Makes me so sad.

> Thankfully, we have heroes here in Night City to protect us! People coming out to change the world and make a difference! The REAL movers and shakers!

Buffering Stream...

NCPD on the Hunt

By Frasier Brendanson

A member of NCPD Vice was discovered late last night, slain execution style in Old Japantown.

Detectives are taking this one personal, as one of their own was found with the term "ACAB" scrawled on his corpse, presumably in blood.

While normally not concerned with Combat Zone crimes, NCPD is determined in hunting down the individual, or individuals, responsible for the killing of the Decorated Officer.

Any leads are rumored to be rewarded.

Please contact your local precinct for more information.

<Obituary to be printed tomorrow>

Full-Moon Madness, on the Way

By Jaffar Spelling

The end of this week is going to be marked by clear skies and our monthly lunar event. That's right, Night City. Full moon coming your way with all its attendant craziness and suffering. If history is an indicator, death tolls will rise drastically as the night progresses. Add into that this ridiculous heat, and you've got yourself a recipe for slaughter!

What is the mystique of that full moon? Sure, there are the old tales of werewolves and other night-dwelling creatures, all fangs and teeth. Maybe uneducated 19th and 20th century school children ran screaming at the thought of a half-man/half-wolf creature chasing them down. Hell, even the members of 6th Street are scarier than a fuzzy man-dog.

Whatever the reason, we already know what to expect: it's going to be a week custom made for Death.

Night City Sports Scoop

By Nick Jonias

Devastating news rocked the roller derby world early this morning as Janet "Hit and Run" Owens was found brutally murdered in the hallways of the Arc Angels cube complex in South Night City. Residents on her floor were awakened by an explosion at Janet's end of the floor, reporting a loud scuffle and screaming from the hallway before silence. When a brave soul finally opened the door, they found her naked body hacked to pieces, her trademark bat "Old Glory" on the ground nearby.

Janet's skin was the traditional burnt orange normally on display during her matches, so her fans can rest assured she did not go down quietly. NCPD has declined to comment on the investigation. But folks in South Night City all know nothing will come of this. After all, when does NCPD follow up on murders in that part of town? Janet had been in the news a few days earlier for playing a street match with her former team, the Lipstick Lazars, against the Snazzy Sharks of Little Europe.

The match had been interrupted by an unknown individual detonating an explosive in the crowd resulting in a stampede that injured many spectators. NCPD locked down the block for hours while Trauma Team came in to deal with the injuries. Her last posts on her personal Garden site were apologies to the fans for the incident at the game, and a vow to track down whomever dared to attack her fans and former teammates. Quote, "You fuck with my bitches, and I fuck with you."